

Democrats Carry City and County

LITTLE CHANGE IN COUNCIL MAKEUP

Van Wagoner Leads In State Voting.

With a field of Democratic campaign workers on the job and the weatherman dishing out anything except Republican weather, Crawford county's biennial spring election went into the Democratic column with a vengeance. The City of Grayling led in the onslaught with majorities for the Dems of as high as over 200. Grayling township gave a slight edge in favor of the Republican candidates. Frederic favored the Democrat candidates as did also Beaver Creek, Maple Forest and Lovells joined the Republican column and South Branch made it emphatic with an average two to one vote in favor of the Republican candidates.

Van Wagoner, as was expected, lead in votes in the City of Grayling, Frederic, Beaver Creek, Maple Forest, and Lovells; Grayling township tied with 36 votes for Van Wagoner and Ziegler, Democrat and Republican candidates, and South Branch gave Ziegler 6 majority.

Three Councilmen Returned.

In the election of councilmen for the city of Grayling, Mayor Chris W. Olsen, and Councilmen Roy O. Milnes and Carl Jensen were re-elected, and Al Roberts and George Burke will complete the city organization.

Out of a field of ten candidates, the five having the largest number of votes would be declared elected. Roy Milnes led with 466 votes and George Burke was a close second with 430 votes. Al Roberts next with 411, Carl Jensen with 352 and Chris Olsen with 321. Councilman Jesse Schoonover was nosed out by one vote by Mayor Olsen.

Frank Sales, the fifth member of the council for the past two years had declined to be a candidate for re-election this year. He was a very able councilman, as was also Mr. Schoonover and the public owes them a debt of gratitude for the service they have rendered the city. Both were dependable men and able councilmen. Mr. Sales, together with Mayor Olsen, represented Grayling city on the county board of supervisors.

Al Roberts served on the village council for many years and knows the city's affairs just about as well as anyone in it and is going to be a lot of help in the administration of the city's business. George Burke has one of the biggest business investments in the city, is a successful business man and understands the handling of big business. He is a splendid choice of the people for councilman.

Mayor Olsen has long served the city. When convinced on a principle he has the courage of conviction to stick to his point. Roy Milnes is a young man of excellent judgment and has given the city the benefit of his services for many years. Roy is a clear thinker and a big assistance with any organization.

Carl Jensen has served on the council for the past two years and has a good knowledge of city affairs. He, as well as Mr. Milnes, is a member of the school board.

Hans Petersen, the present incumbent, was re-elected justice of the peace, an office that he has held for many years. Morgan Paige was elected constable, although he was not a candidate on the city ticket.

Tabulated reports of the county and city voting appears herewith. A star after the name of a candidate for election to the city council indicates election.

HONOR JUDGE JOHN C. SHAFFER

To honor and present Judge John C. Shaffer, the attorneys and officers of the counties in the 34th Judicial circuit, Gladwin, Arenac, Ogemaw, Roscommon, Crawford and Otsego, gathered Tuesday evening for a chicken dinner at the Spanish-American War Veterans camp, located on the west side of Higgins Lake. After dinner Judge Shaffer was presented and in turn gave a very fine talk.

Following the banquet the attorneys of the counties present held a meeting to form a Bar Association in this 34th Judicial district. It was decided at that time to invite the attorneys of the 23rd district, over which Judge Herman Delmke presides, to join, making it a Bar Association of the two districts. Only temporary officers were elected until such time as they could ascertain whether or not the attorneys of the 23rd district are interested in joining with such an association. The following were elected: Judge John C. Shaffer, President; Judge Earl Chapin, of West Branch, secretary; Judge Henry Miltner, of Cadillac, was in attendance at the meeting and gave a talk on the manner in which the Northwest Michigan Bar association of which he is a member, conduct their meetings.

The next meeting will be held in June, at a date to be determined later, in West Branch, when judges of the 34th district will invite the 23rd district to attend.

Harlem Globe Trotters Here Sat. Nite

WORLD'S COLORED BASKETBALL CHAMPS TO PLAY HANSON CAFE TEAM

Basketball that has never been seen before in this section of the state will be witnessed when the Harlem Globe Trotters, World's colored champions, take the floor here next Saturday night against the Hanson Cafe at 9:15.

Many of the country's leading sports writers claimed them without an equal in deceptive passing, uncanny shooting, along with clowning acts that keep the fans in a laughing mood throughout the game. The Hanson Cafe team has been very fortunate in bringing this team here for an exhibition and many of you fans who have been longing to see a real professional team in action will now have the opportunity at a small admission charge.

The Harlem Globe Trotters have won over ninety per cent of their games this year and have defeated the leading college teams and pro teams, including the New York Celtics, since their organization. During the past ten years they have played 1274 games, winning 1166 and losing 108 games. Last year they won 154 out of 156 games. Few teams can boast of this record.

Their lineup will consist of Jackson, center, one of the greatest ball handlers in the game; Rusan, a forward, stand 5 feet 4 inches, weighing but 130 pounds, the smallest man playing professional ball and one of the fastest; Watts, forward, one of the finest players to come out of Wisconsin. The guards are Ford and Strong. Strong has the largest hands in basketball; Bunny Leavitt, free throw artist, will give an exhibition in this line. His official record is 499 consecutive throws without a miss, and has been featured in movie sport shorts.

Main game will start at 9:15. Preliminary at 8 o'clock. Admission, children 15c; adults 35c.

DONKEY BASKETBALL GAME AFFORDED MANY THRILLS

Basketball on—and frequently off—donkeys made its inaugural bow in Grayling last Wednesday night when the year's biggest crowd saw Milne's team triumph over Spike's aggregation by a 14 to 8 margin. It was good entertainment for a crowd that numbered in the vicinity of six hundred people.

The donkey game set up a new code of rules, but the scoring came when the ball found the nets in the usual way. Aside from that fixed fact the game afforded the novel sight of players battling each other in what resembled free-for-alls, players earnestly trying to bestir some reluctant quadruped by pulling the head off, players sitting atop their steeds in the approved manner, and players sitting on top of donkeys laid out like carpets. There was no recorded case of the donkey sitting on a player however.

The Milne outfit got off to a head start by rolling up an 8-0 score at the end of the first period. It was 10-2 at the half. The last quarter found Spike's scrappy outfit out-scoring their rivals by a margin of six points to four and a final count of 14 to 8. There was some fancy passing on display, and some flashes of real team-work. The high point man of the fracas was Clarence Johnson, who hit the bucket four times. Cornell with two baskets was the only other player who got more than one counter. The longest shot of the game was tallied by Dr. Ardis, whose basket was from far out. Larson, McNeven, Thompson, and Dr. Stealy also collected points for their teams. The players found the game to be an active one, and hard work to play. It was great fun to watch.

The High School Athletic association collected half of the gate, the rest going to the owner of the donkey troupe. The school made close to forty dollars on the venture, and is grateful to those who took part in the game. The players who participated are as follows: A. Larson, C. Johnson, Dr. Stealy, G. Thompson, H. McNeven, V. Petersen, W. Cornell, R. Milnes, Dr. Ardis, W. Laurant, E. Fenton, Dr. Cook, and W. Swanson.

Former Gaylord Editor Reaches Ripe Age

From Gaylord Herald & Times

Every community has within it a few people that are looked upon with veneration and a great deal of respect. In Gayling one of these men is H. C. McKinley, a man who in the early years of his residence in the community has been one of the largest contributors to a community betterment.

Mr. McKinley was born in 1864, one of the oldest men in this community, and everyone wishes him many more years of life.

Mr. McKinley was the editor of the Oshtemo County Record, and for more than 20 years he has been a member of the Gayling community.

He has ever watched with interest the forward steps being made, taking a keen delight in the progress of the community.

During the past year he has suffered greatly, first losing the thumb on his left hand due to an infection, from which he was confined to a hospital for many weeks. Later it was necessary to remove his right arm just below the elbow, which meant many more weeks in a hospital bed.

But he is home now, making the best of his afflictions, and still as optimistic as when he was first afflicted. He has a fine sense of humor, and a fine sense of humor, and a fine sense of humor.

The Avalanche wishes to pay tribute to this grand citizen, and to his family, and to his community, and to his country, and to his world, and to his universe, and to his everything.

Mr. McKinley was identified with the Avalanche in its early years and also only a few years ago was employed in this office. He was a journalist and we know that that does mean of the highest type and as a all.

School Notes

With the basketball season ended and all equipment stored away in mothballs, baseball bids fair to occupy the center of the sport stage for the remainder of the year.

A varied assortment of baseball hopefuls answered Coach Cornell's first call to practice and if numbers mean anything, the Green and White will be well represented on the diamond this year.

Although it is a little early to make any predictions the number of veterans out would seem to auger well for the success of the team.

With Chalker, Hanson, Coutts, Westerholm, Matthews, Tibbets, Moshier, Bivins, McClain, Smock and Deckrow back from last year's aggregation, along with Clayton Anthony, who bids fair to develop into an excellent pitcher, and a host of others; it would seem that Grayling baseball fans will have some good baseball in store for them this spring.

Vision tests have been given in the schools this year and the results sent home in cases where defects have been disclosed. Mrs. Gorman confers with parents as to the interpretation of the tests and in many cases the Children's Fund will supply glasses to pupils for a minimum charge. The eighth grade is next in line for tests, the seventh grade having just been completed.

Work on the Senior play has started, with the student dramatists getting ready to give Grayling a chance to "Meet The Duchess" in the not far distant future. The play has been selected, the cast has been chosen and work has already started on the matter of mastering the lines and action. More will be heard about this activity. Miss Jessie MacDonald is in charge of the production. The eleven students who have parts are as follows: Bill Joseph, Herbert Feldhauser, Stephan Jorgenson, and Kermit Charron, the fellows, and Marguerite Feldhauser, Ruth Stevenson, Margaret Buck, Donna Griffith, Elsie Mae LaMotte, Dorothy Wakeley, and Pauline Entsminger, the girls.

The Juniors have begun to lay plans for their Prom. With the date set as May 21st the class is busy studying bids from orchestras and figuring on decorations. A music committee of Class President Norma Griffith, Dorothea Morris, Frances Entsminger, and Jerine Peterson has been holding conferences and the class will be able to announce a decision within a short time.

The Biology class has been studying the action of bacteria, and Mr. Deming has made it possible for them to actually see the results by means of experiment. Pieces of boiled potatoes have been pressed into service to serve as the home for these growths as well as furnish food. Some were exposed to the air, other pieces were coughed upon, others rubbed with grime and so on. The results should be interesting.

The boys in the Home Economics class are serving luncheons on Tuesday and Wednesday. This is the first time they have prepared the entire meal.

The girls in the Related Arts class have sanded the chairs and table as the first step in finishing them for the dining room.

Considerable complaint is current by the firemen about autos running in front of and cutting in on the fire apparatus while going to a fire. The law gives fire apparatus right of way while going to fires and must be observed, said Oliver Cody, fire chief. Hereafter drivers must stand the consequences whenever they fail to clear the highway for the fire apparatus.

Lansing—Developments of the "sit-down" strikes in Michigan, which have plagued Governor Murphy since the inaugural last January, are beginning to shape definitely in legislative halls here at the state capitol.

The developments are being speeded by recent historical rulings of the United States Supreme court, ending the so-called judicial "no man's land" between federal and state governments.

Washington's court openings have opened the gate in Michigan to the following New Deal measures:

Minimum wages and maximum hours for labor. Several bills are now pending in committees which will invest the state government with wide powers to determine fair wages and hours. The federal court ruling, upholding the Washington state minimum wage law, prompted a nation-wide movement to have similar legislation enacted by states. In Nevada the governor signed a bill setting an $18 weekly wage for women.

Strike Regulation Next?
That the state government will adopt regulations restricting outlawing strikes is seen as another likely outcome.

Governor Murphy has announced that University of Michigan experts are now busy drafting labor arbitration measures.

Has the state of Michigan such authority?

Study the following declaration contained in the supreme court's ruling:

"In dealing with the relation of employer and employee, the legislature has necessarily a wide field of discretion in order that there may be suitable protection of health and safety, and that peace and good order may be promoted through regulations designed to insure wholesome conditions of work and freedom from oppression."

The language appears to be clear, say the experts who declare that Michigan could outlaw sit-down strikes by legislative decree and make it stick.

States' Rights

It is the state legislature, rather than Congress at Washington, that bears close watching in the enactment of laws affecting Michigan labor and industry. The court ruling also upheld a Virginia law fixing arbitrary minimum prices of milk as a matter of public policy.

In Detroit the price of milk has just been increased 1 cent a quart, after producers had threatened to invoke a farmers' strike.

If minimum wages and hours can be determined by the legislature, you may be sure that the farmers will ask for similar benefits in the matter of farm prices. Minimum wages for school teachers is proposed by Representative Peter R. Legg of Escanaba.

Militant "Bloc."
In the house a militant representative, Philip Rahoi, democrat of Iron Mountain, has focused attention on old age pensions and unemployment relief. Taking the general stand that he will vote against any appropriation bill until the pensions and relief welfare bills are passed by the house, Rahoi has become the leader of a so-called "progressive bloc."

The Rahoi group wants the following:

1. An increase from $2,000,000 to $12,000,000 state appropriation for old age pensions.

2. An increase from $9,000,000 to $12,000,000 state appropriation for the state's share in direct relief.

Relief Costs Vary
While the cost of unemployment relief has been increased sharply due to the epidemic of "sit-down" strikes, legislators are trying again to solve the complicated and perplexing problem of how to distribute funds.

If relief funds were handed down on a basis of population, you would run into the situation where it costs $18.43 a month in Schuylkill county to maintain a family and $43.99 for the same family in Wayne county. Then, too, only 1 out of every 100 persons in Clinton and Livingston counties are dependent on relief. In Roscommon county this proportion is 54 out of 100.

Motor-Minded Legislators

Since Michigan is the world capital for the manufacture of motor vehicles, it is only logical that its legislators are "motor-wise." There are 49 bills in the house and 14 in the senate directly related to the state's number one industry and its many ramifications.

Everything from prohibiting hitch-hiking to compulsory insurance for all automobiles has been proposed. One bill now before the senate would require motorists to stop and render aid if a dog is run over on the highway. Another which has passed the senate would make drunk-driving a felony.

The bills are so numerous that the major portion of the army of Lansing lobbyists are kept busy watching their progress.

Miscellany

Farm co-operatives would be permitted to make and sell wine, according to a bill passed by the senate and now before the house.

The civil service bill, passed by the senate, is expected to come before the house soon. It was confined in committee due to the election.

Garden clubs have launched a drive to rescue the billboard bill from oblivion. This measure, affecting billboards outside city limits, is believed to be constitutional in view of recent federal and state supreme court rulings.

The bill would license billboards and hence would not prevent further commercialization of scenic views.

Township fire departments would be possible as a special assessment district under House Bill 309 now before the senate.

Story of Return Trip From West

Clare Madsen writes an interesting account of their homeward trip after spending several weeks in Port Angeles, Wash., visiting Mrs. Madsen's parents. We are pleased to print it.

Wednesday, March 3rd, we left Port Angeles, Wash., headed for Seattle, drove along the water most of the way and arrived at Seattle at two o'clock in the afternoon.

Thursday we spent seeing the town. We visited the zoo in the morning and visited the art museum in the afternoon. Here there is a good deal of Chinese, and Japanese art which was very interesting. We also visited the greenhouses. There were many different kinds of flowers and plants from many parts of the world. They have a great collection of orchids here. They were all in bloom and very pretty.

We visited the government locks where the boats are taken from the salt water into Lake Washington. There are many mulls on the shores of Lake Washington. We topped off the day by going to one of the downtown theatres.

Friday morning we left Seattle for San Francisco. We traveled through Washington along lower Columbia River. Here we saw a boat sunk with its decks above water. The peculiar part of this shipwreck was that this same boat had taken a load of lumber in Port Angeles the week before. It was an Italian steamer headed for Italy.

We went thru Portland that afternoon. We traveled thru southern Oregon; stopped for the night at Drain, Oregon. The climate is very nice in this part of Oregon. Here they sold smelt along the highway, six pounds for a quarter. These are the same kind of smelt we have in Michigan.

We proceeded on our way thru Grant's Pass, Oregon, crossed the Oregon-California line about ten o'clock. Here the United States Department of Agriculture go through all your luggage, looking for plants and fruit that carry diseases.

Thirty-five minutes from the line we hit the big redwoods. They are really beautiful. Here everyone seems to make their living selling souvenirs—and what prices they get for them!

We saw the tallest tree in the world, 364 feet high. We also saw some very big ones; one tree was estimated to have 18,700 feet of lumber in it. Some of the limits were 3 feet in diameter.

We hit the ocean at Crescent City, Calif. We followed the ocean for a long ways. I stopped and bought some fresh shrimps. We had them fried for our evening meal, and they were very good. At this place we saw a lobster that weighed 7 pounds.

We also saw oil wells in the ocean; some were at least a half mile from shore.

We arrived at San Francisco Sunday afternoon, crossed the San Francisco bay on a ferry boat. Saw the two big bridges that are being built. At San Francisco we visited Mr. and Mrs. Ben Pankow for a few minutes. Visited others in this city also.

PRIVATE RECIPES

Then AND Now

If tired you are from the tasks of the day, Contentment you'll find in the pleasantest way In Bradford's good beer—you'll drink it no fault— It's made without fail from that good barley malt.

The quality of Altes Lager that makes it such an outstanding favorite must be credited to the discovery made by Louis W. Schimmel, brewer for over fifty years. Mr. Schimmel, seeking a different and better beer, perfected his private recipe after years of patient effort. His discovery won immediate and wide-spread popularity. The importance of this private recipe lies in the fact that it produces a distinctive and better beer—a beer that cannot be imitated.

This colonial rhyme refers to the Pilgrim Fathers who brought beer and their own recipe for brewing it with them when they landed at Plymouth Rock more than three hundred years ago. The art of brewing has progressed since colonial days, but the importance of proven private recipes remains.
